(International tracing and message service)

Do you know of someone who is looking for his or her relative?
The Red Cross can help.

When war or disaster strike, we help people to:

- > find relatives and put them back in contact again
- > pass on family news to relatives where normal communication such as telephone and postal services have broken down
- > provide certification of detention for prisoners of war and detainees
- > free and confidential service

Please pass this on... All we need you to do is pass on the following information to people who may be looking for a relative.

For further information, please contact the Red Cross:
